

Parenthood in Academia

with Louise Gathercole

Come and meet other early career researchers and PhD students who are parents or thinking about starting a family. This will be an informal facilitated session covering some of the challenges of balancing family and career!

In the morning workshop by Louise Gathercole, we will be thinking about what is important to you, creating support structures and networks and what changes you want to make.

After lunch (provided) we will have a drop-in session with representatives from HR and the Doctoral College where you can find out about the support offered at QMUL.

Please note that capacity for the morning workshop is limited to 30 due to space, secure your ticket via the QR code below. Tickets are not required for the networking lunch and afternoon advice clinic. While the morning session was designed for PhDs/ECRs, the afternoon event is open to all!

13th November 2023

Scape Canalside TR1, Mile End Campus

h10:30-12:30	Parenthood workshop (ticket required)
h12:30	Networking lunch
h13:00-14:00	Advice Clinic (drop-in)

