Gift Acceptance Policy [FIC24/06]

2024.006 The Committee considered the updated Gift Acceptance Policy. The following points were noted in the discussion:

- [a] The Gift Acceptance Policy had been updated to reflect current good practice and benchmarking against similar policies at other research-intensive universities. The policy would improve sight of the donors and the origins of philanthropic donations. It would allow the University to think about where academic freedom might be compromised or where there was the potential for future financial or reputational implications for the institution.

[b] The policy explicitly stated that the University would not accept gifts derived from the proceeds of the sale of tobacco, as this would represent a conflict of interest for our clinical researchers and would prohibit the University from receiving funding in cancer research. The Committee discussed whether the policy should include a list of other excluded industries, such as arms, like those set out in the Investment Policy. Regulation and norms in philanthropy and investment differed, and gifts would be considered on a case-by-case basis. This would include a consideration of the acceptability of the donor alongside the acceptability of the gift for a particular purpose. Recent investment in search tools had improved our ability to conduct due diligence on prospective donors.

[c] The Committee agreed to recommend approval to Council.
