

Global Intellectual Property Law Lecture Series 2016/17

FROM TRIPS TO FTAs AND BACK: THE ROLE OF A MULTILATERAL IP FRAMEWORK IN A TRIPS- PLUS WORLD

Dr. Henning Grosse Ruse - Khan

16 February 2017, 6-8pm Lecture Theatre, CCLS, Lincoln's Inn Fields Campus

In this second lecture for our Global IP Law Lecture Series, we are pleased to have Dr Henning Grosse Ruse Khan as our distinguished speaker. He will speak about the move from TRIPS as a overarching multilateral framework to bilateral, plurilateral or regional character post-TRIPS. The speaker, an expert in international IP, WTO and investment law issues, will make a case for the continued relevance of the TRIPS Agreement as an overarching, multilateral framework for TRIPS-plus FTAs.

Dr Henning Grosse Ruse-Khan is a University Lecturer in Intellectual Property Law at the University of Cambridge and a Fellow of King's College. In Cambridge, Henning is Co-Director of the Centre for Intellectual Property and Information Law and a Fellow at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law.

To register for the above event, please go to our Eventbrite page here.
You can find more details of the Global IP Law Lecture series at our CCLS events page: <http://www.ccls.qmul.ac.uk/events/>.

The Centre for Commercial Law Studies (CCLS) at Queen Mary University of London specialises in the knowledge and skills in commercial law that can be placed at the service of government, public bodies, overseas institutions, the legal profession, industry and commerce.

Lincoln's Inn Fields Campus, Centre for Commercial Law Studies (CCLS)
Queen Mary, University of London, 67-69 Lincoln's Inn Fields, London WC2A 3JB