Tanja Mortelmans

Short intro

Who am I?

Linguist at the University of Antwerp (Belgium), German department

Main domains of research:

- modal verbs and mood as expressions of modality/evidentiality – also from a contrastive perspective (German-Dutch-English-French); progressive constructions in German and Dutch; reflexive constructions
- grammaticalization & subjectification
- LANGUAGE AND GENDER

My interest in ‘Language and Gender’?

- I have been teaching a Masters course on ‘Sprache & Geschlecht’ for many years.
- For the ‘University of Flanders’ (a series of popular science communication), I have given a talk with the title: Why is a German vamp more “masculine” than a Dutch one. [<https://www.universiteitvanvlaanderen.be/podcast/waarom-is-een-duitse-vamp-mannelijker-dan-een-vlaamse>]
- I have published on the topic:

Mortelmans, Tanja. 2008. Zij is een power feminist: nog eens functie- en rolbenamingen in het Nederlands vanuit contrastief perspectief. Tijdschrift voor genderstudies 11(1), 7-19.

Mortelmans, Tanja. 2008. Genus(s) und kein Ende: einige Überlegungen zur Genuskategorie im Deutschen. Germanistische Mitteilungen 67, 262-275.

Mortelmans, Tanja. 2022-2023. Role nouns in appositional contexts in German and (Belgian/Netherlandic) Dutch. A corpus study. Leuvense Bijdragen 104.

My research interest in ‘Language and Gender’?

- role & function nouns in Dutch (referring to women), also with an eye on differences between Belgian and Netherlandic Dutch.

Zij is een linguïst/Zij is een linguïste.

‘Sie is a linguist_C/She is a linguist_F’

In haar rol als linguïst/als linguïste.

‘In he role as a linguist_C/as a linguist_F’

My research interest in ‘Language and Gender’?

- influence of the language system on actual gender-inclusive practices → look at the Dutch language through German glasses (German: 3-fold gender system)
- Belgian-Dutch: former 3-way gender system is being simplified, but still present → formal distinction between M-F role nouns in Belgian Dutch is more strongly retained (voorzitter vs. voorzitster)
- Netherlandic Dutch → neutralisation of the opposition M-F (e.g. use of voorzitter throughout)

- Thank you!
